What our members say

“ Becoming a member of The Nautical Institute is the most positive way to follow the updates of marine standards and development. I enjoy the identification with other members of the Institute whom I often meet on board and at conferences and events around the world. ”

Sandy Lin, MNI, Agency and Consultancy, People’s Republic of China

“ Membership of The Nautical Institute has afforded me many professional and personal benefits throughout my marine career, ranging from access to a global network of professionals, to social contacts and friendships. I am proud of the growth and constant look towards making things better for the nautical profession that is the foundation of The Nautical Institute. ”

David (Duke) Snider, FNI, Canadian Coast Guard, Canada

“ *It is so refreshing to be a part of an organisation in which you can express your opinions and learn from others in a friendly and accepting atmosphere. The information that The Nautical Institute provides in terms of industry standards, training and trends through its journal Seaways, is essential in my capacity to be an effective maritime education lecturer.* ”

William Amanhya, MNI, Maritime Education Lecturer, Ghana

“ Membership of The Nautical Institute has provided me access to knowledge, professional guidance and networking amongst members with similar interests in the maritime sector. This International Institute is unique to seafarers and those interested in the nautical profession, allowing continuous development through the extensive knowledge provided by the ever-evolving publications produced by those proficient in this industry. ”

Allen Brink, FNI, Marine Surveyor, South Africa
